

Project Title: Boviphone & Aqualentiphone

Hosted By: Remco de Kluizenaar Soundartist

Project Introduction:

In an inspiring presentation with music, Dutch soundartist Remco de Kluizenaar will use his development of two musical instruments as an analogy to replacing animal proteins with plants in food. De Kluizenaar is artist in residence at Wageningen University & Research on the theme protein transition.

About Organisation:

Remco de Kluizenaar studied biotechnology at Wageningen University and Fine Arts at Artez Arnhem. After that he has an autodidact career in site-specific theatre and has been seen in many European arts festivals, Groninger Museum and Kröller-Müller. In the theatre since 2010 he moved more and more towards sound-art experiments, so that since 2020 he decided to take soundart up as his specialisation. From this discipline he works together with scientists, musea, governments, etc.
